THE CHINA MAIL.

HONGKONG, FRIDAY, JULY 23, 1869.

IN reference to the application for a rule nisi, as reported in another column, we state that when we inserted the paragraph complained of we did not notice the possibility of the application to Mr Marques Pereira of the line referred to in Mr. Hazard's letter, or it would have been excised. We are fully aware of the impropriety of prejudging a case pendente lite, and regret that in this case there has been less caution than circumstances demanded. The error was, however, purely unintentional. We would not voluntarily and intentionally interfere to interrupt or improperly influence the course of justice in any case, especially where the remedy sought is of a private nature; and as the words complained of are said by Mr. Pereira to be prejudicial to him, we withdraw them unreservedly.

It is obviously a mistake to say that "a fact" has been "accomplished" which has yet to be proved, and for this error we apologise to the Supreme Court and to Mr. Marques Pereira. We do not acquit ourselves of blame in permitting the sentence to appear, but our correspondent at Macao from whom we received the statement, will, we hope, see the necessity of being more accurate in future communications.

With respect to our note in reply to Mr. Hazard's we may say that, but for the very preposterous character of that gentleman's communication, and the shortness of time given for consideration at our busiest time of day, the answer would have approached the explanatory tone in which this paragraph is now penned.

THE STRAITS ASSOCIATION.

In marked contrast to the failure of the Hongkong Association, both locally and at home, is the comparative success of the Straits Association under the valuable and judicious presidency of Mr Horsman, M.P. It has not indeed as yet succeeded in getting anything but a promise of attention being paid to its representations, but it has managed to attract public notice and to get a hearing which can scarcely be devoid of influence on the future welfare of the Colony it represents. A recent memorandum issued by its committee contains so clear and temperate an exposition of the views it advocates that it is worthy in existence, of the serious attention of members. The two chief points are the increase of expenditure and the constitution of the legislative council. The first is so dependent upon the second that it is in this way—the machinery of local government—alone, that reform can be initiated. The Straits Association me-morum thus deals with the question:

It is by no means sought to give to the unofficial members a preponderating influence in the Council, although such a state of things exists in both Mauritius and Trinidad. The desire is to equalize the numbers, giving the Governor a casting vote, and it is submitted since it is within the power of the Government to ensure a fuller attendance of its members than can be done by a non-official party, the result of such an arrangement as is proposed would be simply to create a strong and healthy opposition in the Council, ensuring a full and open discussion of all questions affecting the Colony, and tending to a rigid and economical government of the public expenditure. Regarding the mode to be adopted for equalizing the numbers in the Council, it is thought desirable to reduce that of the official rather than to materially increase that of the unofficial members.

The Straits Association Committee have here hit upon the true functions of the non-official members. They ought to form what in modern parliamentary language is called "the opposition"— not necessarily opposed to every motion of the Government, but
